The Community

Thomasville is located in Thomas County and is known as the "City of Roses." The second largest city in Southwest Georgia, Thomasville offers a historic downtown, a large farmers market, plantations that are open to the public, and an annual Rose Festival. Residents are proud of their community's heritage and preserve the old-world feel. Plantations, museums and historic homes are located throughout Thomasville and offer glimpses into the grand Victorian era, during which Thomasville was known as the "Winter Resort of the South." It is also known for the “Big Oak” which has a limb spread of 175 feet. Nearby higher education opportunities can be found at Thomas University and Southern Regional Technical College. Thomas County and Thomasville City renewed its fourth consecutive ESPLOST for schools. ESPLOST V voting is scheduled for March 16, 2021. Visit the Thomasville, GA website for more information: http://thomasvillega.com/.
